ITALIAN PRIORITIES

An Italian workman, arriving home tired and hungry, finds that all his wife has prepared for the evening meal is some miserably-browned gruel. "I'm doing my best," she says, "but it's the lines. To get bread, you must stand in line for hours; to get macaroni you must stand in another line; for vegetables, still another line. Everywhere I have to wait, wait, wait."

With a set jaw the husband gets up goes to drawer, takes out a revolver.

"What—what are you going to do?" she asked fearfully.

"I can't stand this any longer. I'm going to shoot Mussolini." He slams the door and is gone. Hours drag by, and he returns dejectedly. Throwing the revolver on a table, he slumps into a chair, exhausted.

"You—you have killed him?" the wife asked.

"No," he sighed; "For that, too, you must now stand in line."—British Broadcasting.

BUYERS GETTING CAUTIOUS

For the first time since the United States went to war, retailers are exhibiting caution in buying new merchandise. They still want more first class wares than they can get, but many are fighting shy of substitutes like "victory" furniture with wooden springs, ready-to-wear clothing of reduced wartime quality and war model refrigerators.

Their great fear is that they may be "stuck" with rayon stockings when nylon becomes available, for instance, or short-tail shirts, when generous ones are made once more.

Behind this "chooses" buying lies a psychology that "the fighting may be over soon." It is reported by buying organizations in New York, and confirmed in detail by a Wall Street Journal check-up in such widely separated cities as Detroit, Kansas City and Youngstown. — Wall Street Journal.

CINEMATIC CHATTER.....

— BY MALCOLM MILLER —
What The Movies Have To Offer During The Coming Week

When they put Don Ameche, Janet Blair and Jack Oakie into a super-duper musical show and surround them with a bevy of gorgeous maids, you've got music to shout about, romance to rave about and comedy to scream about.

These three stellar stars along with William Gaxton, Colina Wright Jr., Hazel Scott, sensational pianist and vocalist from New York's Cafe Society Uptown, David Lichine, former Russian ballet star, The Bricklayers and a bevy of eye filling chorines, move into the Prince Theatre for the only show, Saturday and the Sunday-Monday run.

This is the biggest break Janet Blair had since she entered pictures. Fresh from Hal Kemp's hand she made her bid for success in "My Sister Ellen" and was acclaimed a huge success. William Gaxton, known as "the best dressed man on Broadway" makes his screen bow in this picture. Of course Oakie and Ameche need no introduction to the theatre public, they have appeared in numerous top fight pictures and have never failed to register in any of them. Hazel Scott, born in Trinidad British West Indies, began to play the piano at the age of three and called as a "child wonder" gave a concert at Carnegie Hall when she was twelve. Since that time she has appeared in the smartest clubs on Broadway and has a huge following on the air.

It can truly be said that "Something To Shout About" is one of the grandest musicals to come our way in some time, and I'm sure it will be a relief to many people to get away from so many pictures about this war.

Tuesday-Wednesday brings Bert Gordon, (billed as "The Mad Russian"), with Margaret Lindsey well known in the "Elizy Queen" series, and John Bell, a personable chap who is winning a coveted place in the films with his clever work. Assisted by other well known featured players and lesser lights, this trio offers one of the acrobatic show on record under the title of "Let's Have Fun."

"Let's Have Fun" is strictly a fun show—it would have to be with Bert Gordon in it. Story and plot are secondary, but the acting ability and the direction, together with the comedy make up for all this. I believe you'll get quite a lift out of it.

On the same program will be a nice selection of short subjects and the current news.

Thursday-Friday the Mexican bundle of T. N. T. Lupe Valdez comes in with "Redhead from Manhattan," which has been termed a "sensation for laughs and downright boisterous entertainment."

Story is light. Has to do with Lupe making her bid for success on the "big screen" and knocking New York for a "loop." Of course there are some thrills and a mixture of romance, but principally, there is comedy, comedy of the variety that wrenches your tummy with laughter.

Short subjects and the current news round out the evening's entertainment.

Tin Holt, with his Western pair and his clever horse, are billed for the Saturday showing, offering "Fighting Frontier," which should please every member of the Six Shooter Club.

Well, Italy has capitulated, Mussolini's in a tough spot, and a good many people are saying "It won't be long now." Don't kid yourself! This is the beginning of the "business"—business of arranging the trip to Tokyo and Berlin. Which means we can't let down now! We've got to keep buying War Stamps and Bonds—we've got to continue ringing the bell at home so the boys abroad can play "Yankee Doodle" at the

GOOD DEAL

If some one would come to you and offer a farm worth $3,000 with the understanding that the income from it would pay the taxes and upkeep on it and at the end of 10 years the real estate dealer would give you $4,000 for the farm, you would think it a splendid deal. This is the proposition that the federal treasury is making to every one today. Buy $3,000 worth of bonds. Put them away for 10 years and they can be cashed in for $4,000. As deals go it looks like a good deal.—Patria Gorda Herald.

LONGEVITY IN TEXAS

A Harvard professor, traveling deep in the heart of Texas, found himself seated next to a Texas cowboy and fell into conversation with him. The Texan confessed to 87 years of age whereupon the professor said: "To what do you attribute your remarkable longevity?"

The Texan thought a moment and answered gravely: "Well, I never stole a horse and I never called a man a liar to his face!"—Collier County News.

LUCK

"Do I believe in luck? I should say I do. It's a wonderful force. I have watched the careers of too many lucky men to doubt its efficacy."

"You see some fellow reach out and grab an opportunity that the other fellow standing around had not realized was there. Having grabbed it, he hangs on to it with a grip that makes jaws ache. A balling seem like a fairy touch. He calls into his play his breath of vision. He sees the possibility of the situation, has the ambition to desire it, and the courage to tackle it. He intensifies his strong points, bolsters his weak ones, cultivates those personal qualities that cause other men to trust him and cooperate with him. He sows the seeds of audacity, of good cheer, of optimism, of unstinted kindness. He gives freely of what he has, both spiritual and physical things."

"He thinks a little straighter, works a little harder and a little longer, travels on his nerve and enthusiasm; he gives such service as his best efforts permit. He keeps his head cool, his feet warm, his mind busy. He does not worry over trifles."

"He plans his work and then sticks to it, rain or shine. He talks and acts like a winner, for he knows in time he will be one. And then—LUCK does all the rest."

Waiting for a Voice from Home

Tankman, filer, doughboy—Pete and John and Bill—are waiting tonight to hear a certain voice on the wires. It's a voice that can put more spring in their stride, give them more determination to do their best until firing ceases. For Pete, John and Bill are waiting to hear—a voice from home.

When you're about to place a long distance call, won't you please remember these fellows who need a few minutes—before tomorrow's hard assignments—to talk to the homefolks? Won't you remember, too, that most of these men have to call in the evening, during that crowded period from 7 to 10? And because burdened lines can't be expanded now to meet all demands, won't you postpone your call until the less-busy hours?

When you avoid making long distance calls, or speak briefly if you talk, you're helping relieve the nation's war-crowded communications system. You're also helping bring "a voice from home" to the boys awaiting it. Pete, John and Bill will be grateful.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS YOUR HELP!

Our government asks every American to conserve critical materials and manpower in a nationwide conservation program. You can make possible considerable savings in lighting and other uses of electricity which will conserve needed materials without lowering margins of safety or service.

Dimout Regulations

have not been changed in any respect and will continue to be your guide in all instances. However, in the interests of conservation, you can do these things voluntarily—

1. ELIMINATE DAYLIGHT ILLUMINATION of indoor and outdoor advertising, neon signs and display signs; close windows which provide no essential interior illumination; marquee and building entrance signs; outdoor business establishments.
2. Eliminate exterior and non-essential interior decorative and ornamental lighting and decoration—flood lighting. Reduce wattage of essential interior lighting if practicable.
3. Reduce wattage of all lighting used without inspiring safety considerations.
4. Use exterior lighting only as permitted under Dimout Regulations but in no case for an interval of more than two hours.
5. Turn off lights when not actually needed or when establishment is not open for business, except for lighting necessary for protection.

BUT DO NOT curtail necessary military, aviation and police lighting essential to public health, including eyeshield conservation and safety plant protection; transportation and production purposes. Outdoor recreational activities are considered essential for wartime morale and lighting such purposes should not be discouraged. However, whatever economies can be achieved in these fields are urged.

Other Ways You Can Help Conserve
You can save in 44 other ways by observing these conservation regulations and making changes in your habits of electricity use. Get list of suggestions when you see this poster.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The more I read about it, Judge, the more I realize the tactics and requirements of this war are as different from the one I fought in 25 years ago as night is from day."
"Yes, and I can give you an example of how true that is, Fred. In World War I the chief uses of alcohol produced for war purposes were found in smokeless powder, medical supplies and chemical warfare materials. In this war the need for this product is far more vital because it is also used as a fuel to propel torpedoes, to make shatterproof glass for airplane windshields and instrument covers, to make lacquers used in camouflaging equipment and as a base for synthetic rubber needed for tires, gas masks, paratroop equipment and dozens of other things.

"Every time I think of it, Fred, I realize how fortunate we were in having a beverage distilling industry in existence when convert broke out... ready and willing to convert 100% to the production of this critically needed war product. I'm mighty sure bootleggers wouldn't have."

Jim has Another Job

Jim used to be a ticket seller at one of our Florida East Coast Railway stations. He was pleasant, had years of experience, could figure fares and sell tickets like a breeze.

But today, Jim and a lot of other experienced men who once worked for the Florida East Coast Railway have another job. They are serving in the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Marines.

When lines form at our ticket windows and you have difficulty in getting the busy ticket office on the phone, it may not occur to you that we are doing our best to remedy this situation.

It has become almost impossible to obtain experienced ticket sellers to take the place of those who have gone, or secure the many extra ones needed. Many months are required to train inexperienced men and women for this complicated type of work.

This is just one of the many difficulties which a railroad, like other types of business, must meet during wartime. We ask your patience and indulgence should it cause you inconvenience.
